

What is divination?

Falcon sat on the porch waiting for her friend, Nate, was taking a long time to come out. They didn't have long until they would be late, and it seemed that Nate didn't care.

"Are you about ready yet?" yelled Falcon. There was no answer, so Falcon finally sat down.

After what seemed like an eternity, she could hear Nate coming down the stairs. "You know I asked you to be quiet while I'm with my neighbor Seth."

"I know and I am sorry!" exclaimed Falcon "it just took you so long talking with Seth that I thought we were going to be late."

"I'm sorry that you thought I was going to make us late, but you should know I would never do that," replied Nate.

"What were you and Seth doing?" asked Falcon.

"We were doing divination," replied Nate.

Falcon looked at Nate with a weird look on her face and said, "What is divination?"

"It's assessing the way things are and how they have been, answering question, and finding out what is going to happen in the future," answered Nate.

Nate and Falcon started towards their bikes when Falcon asked, "How does Seth do that?"

As Nate put up his kick stand, he said "He uses divination tools to help him do it, but I think some of it comes from just what he feels too."

Falcon and Nate both started peddling fast so they wouldn't be late. It wasn't long and their bikes couldn't even be seen.

Activity-

- You will need a ball, piece of paper, and crayons.
- Sit down with your child and make sure they understand the definition of divination that was explained in the dialog.
- Explain that divination tools are merely used as an aid and comes in many forms. Name off the different tools used in divination and allow them to write them on the paper using a different color for each word.
- Take the paper and grab the ball then go outside if weather permits, if not then head to the porch or garage.
- Stand apart from one another. You will play pass with your child but each time you get the ball you have to say the name of one divination tool. Try to hurry and say the word as fast as you can to get the ball out of your hands; making the game get faster and faster.

To make the game more challenging change the words each time, make sure you don't say the name of any tool that has already been said.

- After you feel the review of divination tools is over stop the game. Take the time to play this game later to act as a review.
